This course should be used for two purposes: informing one's organization about fraud and abuse and for documenting their training as part of a compliance program. Upon the completion of this course, you will be able to define and differentiate fraud and abuse, list examples of fraud and abuse, list some relevant statutes, define a qui tam suit, describe some of the actions that the OIG takes, describe the circumstances that lead to exclusion from federal healthcare programs, and give examples for at least 10 types of improper billing practices.
