Ray H. Hull : Hearing and Aging before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Hearing and Aging:

This is the first book written and published that is dedicated solely to hearing loss in older adulthood and, importantly, the processes involved in serving the special needs of older adults who are hearing impaired. It is a concise book, but provides important information for those entering many fields that have as their intent to serve older adults either as a supplement to other texts on communication disorders in aging, or as a concise primary text.

"The author reflects great compassion for his clients while addressing some of their most common fears and concerns. Dr. Hull's pointers and descriptions of key concepts make this an excellent learning resource for graduate courses on hearing in the aging population." ---About the Author Professor of Communicative Disorders and Sciences, Audiology, Wichita State University, Wichita, Kansas. An ASHA Fellow since 1978, and Fellow of AAA, he holds dual certification in audiology and speech-language pathology. Dr. Hull's awards include Distinguished Scholar, University of Northern Colorado; Distinguished Pioneer In Gerontology by the Colorado Gerontological Society; the U.S. Public Health Service Award; the Red River Award by the Winnepeg, Manitoba League for the Hard of Hearing; Emery Lindquist Faculty Award; among others. He serves as consultant and advisor to most Federal agencies that support programs in communication disorders. He is author of Hearing In Aging, published by Singular Thomson Learning.
