Joie D. Acosta, Rajeev Ramchand, Amariah Becker, Alexandria Felton, Aaron Kofner : RAND Suicide Prevention Program Evaluation Toolkit before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised RAND Suicide Prevention Program Evaluation Toolkit:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Professional toolkit for professionals in the prevention businessBy doug kortyThis is a toolkit for professionals who are setting up or doing program evaluations of suicide prevention programs. It is done by seasoned professionals in the profession who are familiar with all of the details of the programs. It should be extremely useful. The worksheets, templates, checklists and bibliography are extensive and very well thought out. It is produced for professionals but may be of interest to non professionals who are interested in suicide prevention for personal reasons.Midwest Independent Research, mwir-mentalhealth.blogspot.com.

Evaluating suicide prevention programs can be challenging because suicide is a rare event and prevention programs are often complex and multifaceted. The RAND Suicide Prevention Program Evaluation Toolkit uses checklists, worksheets, and templates to help program staff design an evaluation that is appropriate for their program type, available resources, and expertise and offers guidance on analyzing the resulting data to inform improvements.
